

Cescily Hardy, center, receives the Adoration Home Health “Legacy in Action” award from Area Vice President of Operations Candice Truett, left, and Regional Vice President of Business Development Zada Davis. (Photo special to The Sun-Sentinel)

Local health care leader receives ‘Legacy’ award

Special to The Sun-Sentinel

Cescily Hardy, registered nurse and director of Adoration Home Health’s Charleston branch, was honored with the “Legacy in Action” award for the South Region during Adoration’s Bringing It Home Leadership Conference in Nashville.

Hardy was recognized among health care leaders from across the organization for her dedication to excellence, leadership and compassionate patient care.

The award represents a significant accomplishment for Hardy and the South Region team, which includes professionals serving communities throughout Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Florida.

As a branch director, Hardy plays a key role in leading her team while helping ensure patients receive quality, compassionate care in the comfort of their own homes.

The “Legacy in Action” recognition celebrates leadership that extends beyond day-to-day responsibilities — highlighting the impact health care professionals make on their patients, their teams and the communities they serve.

Hardy accepted the award alongside fellow members of the South Region, representing a team committed to making a difference in the lives of patients and families.

“This recognition is not just about one person — it represents an incredible team,” Hardy shared. “I am honored to be part of a group of dedicated professionals who show up every day for our patients, our community, our families and one another.”

For Hardy, the “Legacy in Action” award is both an accomplishment and a reflection of the people she serves and the team she leads.

Her recognition serves as a reminder that a lasting legacy in health care is built one patient, one family and one day at a time.